COMUS, A MASK.

THE FIRST SCENE DISCOVERS A WILD WOOD.

The attendant Spirit descends or enters.

B

BEFORE the starry threshold of Jove's court My mansion
is, where those immortal shapes Of bright aerial spirits live insphered
In regions mild of calm & serene air,
Above the smoke

and stir of this dim spot, Which men call Earth, and with low-thoughtèd care Confined, & pester'd in this pinfold here, Strive to keep up a frail and feverish being, Unmindful of the crown that virtue gives, After this mortal change, to her true servants, Amongst the enthroned Gods on sainted seats. Yet some there be that by due steps aspire To lay their just hands on that golden key, That opes the palace of eternity; To such my errand is; and but for such, I would not soil these pure ambrosial weeds

With the rank vapours of this sin-worn mould.

BUT to my task. Neptune, besides the sway Of every salt flood, and each ebbing stream, Took in by lot 'twixt high and nether Jove, Imperial rule of all the sea-girt isles, That like to rich and various gems inlay The unadornèd bosom of the deep; Which he, to grace his tributary Gods, By course commits to sev'ral government, And gives them leave to wear their sapphire crowns, And wield their little tridents: but this Isle, The greatest and the best of all the main, He quarters to his blue-hair'd deities; And all this tract that fronts the falling sun A noble Peer of mickle trust and power Has in his charge, with temper'd awe to guide An old and haughty nation, proud in arms:
Where his fair offspring, nursed in princely lore, Are coming to attend their father's state, And new-intrusted sceptre; but their way Lies through the perplex'd paths of this drear wood, The nodding horror of whose shady brows Threats the forlorn and wand'ring passenger; And here their tender age might suffer peril, But that by quick command from sov'reign Jove, I was dispatch'd for their defence & guard; And listen why, for I will tell you now What never yet was heard in tale or song, From old or modern bard, in hall or bower.

BACCHUS, that first from out the purple grape Crush'd the sweet poison of misusèd wine, After the Tuscan mariners transform'd, Coasting the Tyrrhene shore, as the winds listed, On Circe's island fell: who knows not Circe, The daughter of the sun, whose charmèd cup Whoever tasted, lost his upright shape, And downward fell into a grovelling swine? This Nymph that gazed upon his clust'ring locks, With ivy berries wreath'd, and his blithe youth, Had by him, ere he parted thence, a son Much like his father, but his mother more, Whom therefore she brought up, and Comus named: Who ripe, and frolic of his full grown age, Roving the Celtic & Iberian fields, At last betakes him to this ominous wood, And in thick shelter of black shades imbower'd, Excels his mother at her mighty art, Offering to ev'ry weary traveller, His orient liquor in a crystal glass, To quench the drouth of Phœbus; which as they taste, (For most do taste through fond intemperate thirst) Soon as the potion works, their human count'nance, Th' express resemblance of the Gods, is changed Into some brutish form of wolf, or bear, Or ounce, or tiger, hog, or bearded goat, All other parts remaining as they were; And they, so perfect is their misery, Not once perceive their foul disfigurement, But boast themselves more comely than before, And all their friends & native home forget, To roll with pleasure in a sensual sty. Therefore, when any favour'd of high Jove Chances to pass through this adventurous glade, Swift as the sparkle of a glancing star I shoot from heav'n, to give him safe convoy, As now I do: But first I must put off These my sky robes spun out of Iris' woof, And take the weeds and likeness of a swain, That to the service of this house belongs, Who with his soft pipe, and smooth-dittied song, Well knows to still the wild winds when they roar, And hush the waving woods, nor of less faith, And in this office of his mountain watch, Likeliest, & nearest to the present aid Of this occasion.

But I hear the tread Of hateful steps; I must be viewless now.

COMUS enters with a charming maid in one hand, his glass in the other, with him a rout of monsters, headed like sundry sorts of wild beasts, but otherwise like men and women, their apparel glittering; they come in making a riotous & unruly noise, with torches in their hands.

COMUS.

THE star that bids the shepherd fold,
Now the top of heaven doth hold;
And the gilded car of day
His glowing axle doth allay
In the steep Atlantic stream;
And the slope sun his upward beam
Shoots against the dusky pole,
Pacing toward the other goal
Of his chamber in the east.
Meanwhile, welcome Joy and Feast,
Midnight Shout and Revelry, Tipsy Dance and Jollity.
Braid your locks with rosy twine,
Dropping odours, dropping wine.
Rigour now is gone to bed,
And Advice with scrupulous head,

Strict Age, and sour Severity,
With their grave saws in slumber lie.
We that are of purer fire
Imitate the starry quire,
Who in their nightly watchful spheres
Lead in swift round the months and years.
The sounds & seas, with all their finny drove Now to the moon in wavering morrice move,
And on the tawny sands and shelves
Trip the pert fairies and the dapper elves.
By dimpled brook, and fountain brim,
The wood-nymphs, deck'd with daisies trim,
Their merry wakes and pastimes keep;
What hath night to do with sleep?
Night hath better sweets to prove,
Venus now wakes, and wakens Love.
Come, let us our rites begin,
'Tis only day-light that makes sin,
Which these dun shades will ne'er report.
Hail, Goddess of nocturnal sport,
Dark-veil'd Cotytto, t'whom the secret flame
Of midnight torches burns; mysterious dame,
That ne'er art call'd, but when the dragon womb
Of Stygian darkness spits her thickest gloom,
And makes one blot of all the air;
Stay thy cloudy ebon chair,

Wherein thou rid'st with Hecate, & befriend
Us thy vow'd priests, till utmost end
Of all thy dues be done, and none left out,
Ere the babbling eastern scout,
The nice morn, on the Indian steep
From her cabin'd loophole peep,
And to the tell-tale sun descry
Our conceal'd solemnity.
Come, knit hands, and beat the ground
In a light fantastic round.

The Medsars

BREAK off, break off, I feel the different pace Of some chaste footing near about this ground.
Run to your shrouds, within these brakes and trees; Our number may affright! Some virgin sure (For so I can distinguish by mine art) Benighted in these woods. Now to my charms, And to my wily trains; I shall ere long Be well-stock'd with as fair a herd as grazed About my mother Circe.
Thus I hurl My dazzling spells into the spongy air, Of power to cheat the eye with blear illusion, And give it false present-ments, lest the place And my quaint habits breed astonishment And put the damsel to suspicious flight, Which must not be, for that's against my course: I, under fair pretence of friendly ends, And well-placed words of glozing courtesy Baited with reasons not unplausible, Wind me into the easy-hearted man, And hug him into snares. When once her eye Hath met the virtue of this magic dust, I shall appear some harmless villager, Whom thrift keeps up about his country gear. But here she comes, I fairly step aside, And hearken, if I may, her business here.

The Lady enters

LADY.

THIS way the noise was, if mine ear be true, My best guide now; methought it was the sound Of riot and ill-managed merriment, Such as the jocund flute, or gamesome pipe Stirs up among the loose unletter'd hinds, When for their teeming flocks, and granges full, In wanton dance, they praise the bounteous Pan, And thank the Gods amiss. I should be loath To meet the rudeness, and swill'd insolence Of such late wassailers; yet O

where else Shall I inform my unacquainted feet In the blind mazes of this tangled wood? My Brothers, when they saw me wearied out With this long way, resolving here to lodge Under the spreading favour of these pines, Stepp'd, as they said, to the next thicket side To bring me berries, or such cooling fruit As the kind hospitable woods provide. They left me then, when the gray-hooded Even, Like a sad votarist in palmer's weed, Rose from the hindmost wheels of Phœbus' wain. But where they are, and why they came not back, Is now the labour of my thoughts; 'tis likeliest
They had engaged their wandering steps too far; And envious darkness, ere they could return, Had stole from me: else, O thievish Night, Why shouldst thou, but for some felonious end, In thy dark lantern thus close up the stars That nature hung in heaven, and fill'd their lamps With everlasting oil, to give due light To the misled and lonely traveller? This is the place, as well as I may guess, Whence even now the tumult of loud mirth Was rife, and perfect in my listening ear, Yet nought but single darkness do I find. What might this be? A thousand fantasies Begin to throng into my memory, Of calling shapes, and beckoning shadows dire, And æry tongues, that syllable men's names On sands, and shores, and desert wildernesses. These thoughts may startle well, but not astound The virtuous mind, that ever walks attended By a strong-siding champion, Conscience.—O welcome pure-eyed Faith, white-handed Hope, Thou hov'ring Angel, girt with golden wings, And thou, unblemish'd form of Chastity! I see ye visibly, and now believe That He, the Supreme Good, t'whom all things ill Are but as slavish officers of vengeance, Would send a glist'ring guardian, if need were, To keep my life and honour unassail'd. Was I deceived, or did a sable cloud Turn forth her silver lining on the night? I did not err, there does a sable cloud Turn forth her silver lining on the night, And casts a gleam over this tufted grove: I cannot halloo to my Brothers, but Such noise as I can make to be heard farthest I'll venture, for my new enliven'd spirits Prompt me; and they perhaps are not far off.

SONG.

SWEET Echo, sweetest nymph, that liv'st unseen
Within thy æery shell,
By slow Meander's margent green,
And in the violet-embroider'd vale,
Where the love-lorn nightingale
Nightly to thee her sad song mourneth well;
Canst thou not tell me of a gentle pair
That liketh thy Narcissus are?
O, if thou have Hid them in some flowery cave,
Tell me but where,
Sweet queen of parly, daughter of the sphere!
So mayst thou be translated to the skies,
And give resounding grace to all heav'n's harmonies.

Enter COMUS.

COMUS.

CAN any mortal mixture of earth's mould Breathe such divine enchanting ravishment? Sure something holy lodges in that breast, And with these raptures moves the vocal air To testify his hidden residence: How sweetly did they float upon the wings Of silence, through the empty-vaulted night, Ate every fall smoothing the raven-down Of darkness till it smiled! I have oft heard My mother Circe with the Sirens three, Amidst the flowery-kirtled Naiades, Culling their potent herbs, and baleful drugs, Who, as they sung, would take the prison'd soul And lap it in Elysium; Scylla wept, And chid her barking waves into attention, And fell Charybdis murmur'd soft applause: Yet they in pleasing slumber lull'd the sense,

And in sweet madness robb'd it of itself;
But such a sacred, and home-felt delight, Such sober certainty of waking bliss I never heard till now. I'll speak to her, And she shall be my queen. Hail, foreign wonder!
Whom certain these rough shades did never breed, Unless the goddess that in rural shrine Dwell'st here with Pan, or Silvan, by blest song Forbidding every bleak unkindly fog To touch the prosperous growth of this tall wood.

LADY. Nay, gentle Shepherd, ill is lost that praise That is address'd to unattending ears; Not any boast of skill, but extreme shift How to regain my sev-er'd comany, Compell'd me to awake the courteous Echo To give me answer from her mossy couch.

COMUS. What chance, good Lady, hath bereft you thus?

LADY. Dim darkness, and this leafy labyrinth.

COMUS. Could that divide you from near-ushering guides?

LADY. They left me weary on a grassy turf.

COMUS. By falsehood, or discourtesy, or why?

LADY. To seek i' the valley some cool friendly spring.

COMUS. And left your fair side all unguarded, Lady?

LADY. They were but twain, and purposed quick return.

COMUS. Perhaps forestalling night prevented them.

LADY. How easy my misfortune is to hit!

COMUS. Imports their loss, beside the present need?

LADY. No less than if I should my Brothers lose.

COMUS. Were they of manly prime,
or youthful bloom?

LADY. As smooth as Hebe's their unrazor'd lips.

COMUS. Two such I saw, what time the labour'd ox In his loose traces from the furrow came, And the swink'd hedger at his supper sat; I saw them under a green mantling vine That crawls along the side of yon small hill, Plucking ripe clusters from the tender shoots; Their port was more than human, as they stood: I took it for a faery vision Of some gay creatures of the element, That in the colours of the rainbow live, And play i' the plighted clouds. I was awe-struck, And as I pass'd, I worshipp'd; if those you seek, It were a journey like the path to heav'n, To help you find them.

LADY. Gentle Villager, What readiest way would bring me to that place?

COMUS. Due west it rises from this shrubby point.

LADY. To find that out, good Shepherd, I suppose, In such a scant allowance of star-light, Would overtask the best land-pilot's art, Without the sure guess of well-practised feet.

COMUS. I know each lane, and every alley green, Dingle or bushy dell of this wild wood, And every bosky bourn from side to side, My daily walks and ancient neighbourhood; And if your stray-attendants be yet lodged Or shroud within these limits, I shall know Ere morrow wake, or the low-roosted lark From her thatch'd pallet rouse; if otherwise, I can conduct you, Lady, to a low But loyal cottage, where you may be safe Till further quest.

LADY. Shepherd, I take thy word,
And trust thy honest offer'd courtesy, Which oft is sooner found in lowly sheds With smoky rafters, than in tapestry halls And courts of princes, where it first was named, And yet is most pretended: in a place Less warranted than this, or less secure, I cannot be, that I should fear to change it. Eye me, blest Providence, and square my trial To my proportion'd strength.
Shepherd, lead on.

Broom

Enter the two Brothers.

FIRST BROTHER.

UNMUFFLE, ye faint stars, and thou, fair moon, That wont'st to love the traveller's benison, Stoop thy pale visage through an amber cloud, And disinherit Chaos, that reigns here In double night of darkness and of shades; Or if your influence be quite damm'd up With black usurping mists, some gentle taper, Though a rush candle from the wickerhole Of some clay habitation, visit us With thy long-levell'd rule of streaming light;
And thou shalt be our star of Arcady, Or Tyrian Cynosure.

SECOND BROTHER.

OR if our eyes Be barr'd that happiness, might we but hear The folded flocks penn'd in their wattled cotes, Or sound of pastoral reed with oaten stops, Or whistle from the lodge, or village cock Count the night watches to his feathery dames, 'Twould be some solace yet, some little cheering In this close dungeon of innumerable boughs. But O that hapless virgin, our lost Sister! Where may she wander now, whither betake her From the chill dew, among rude burs and thistles? Perhaps some cold bank is her bolster now, Or 'gainst the rugged bark of some broadelm Leans her unpillow'd head, fraught with sad fears. What, if in wild amazement, & affright, Or, while we speak, within the direful grasp Of savage hunger, or of savage heat?

FIRST BROTHER.

PEACE, Brother, be not over-exquisite To cast the fashion of uncertain evils; For grant they be so, while they rest unknown, What need a man forestall his date of grief, And run to meet what he would most avoid? Or if they be but false alarms of fear, How bitter is such self-delusion! I do not think my Sister so to seek, Or so unprincipled in virtue's book, And the sweet peace that goodness bosoms ever, As that the single want of light and noise (Not being in danger, as I trust she is not) Could stir the constant mood of her calm thoughts, And put them into misbecoming plight. Virtue could see to do what virtue would By her own radiant light, though sun and moon Were in the flat sea sunk. And Wisdom's self Oft seeks to sweet retirèd solitude, Where with her best nurse Contemplation She plumes her feathers, and lets grow her wings, That in the various bustle of resort Were all-to ruffled, and sometimes impair'd. He that has light within his own clear breast, May sit 'i the centre, and enjoy bright day: But he that hides a dark soul, and foul thoughts, Benighted walks under the mid-day sun; Himself is his own dungeon.

SECOND BROTHER.

TIS most true, That musing meditation most affects The pensive secrecy of desert cell, Far from the cheerful haunt of men and herds, And sits as safe as in a senate house; For who would rob a hermit of his weeds, His few books, or his beads, or maple dish, Or do his gray hairs any violence? But beauty, like the fair Hesperian tree Laden with blooming gold, had need the guard Of dragon-watch with unenchanted eye, To save her blossoms, & defend her fruit From the rash hand of bold incontinence. You may as well spread out the unsunn'd heaps Of miser's treasure by an outlaw's den, And tell me it is safe, as bid me hope Danger will wink on opportunity, And let a single helpless maiden pass Uninjured in this wild surrounding waste. Of night, or loneliness, it recks me not; I fear the dread events that dog them both, Lest some ill-greeting touch attempt the person Of our unownèd Sister.

FIRST BROTHER.

I DO not, Brother, Infer, as if I thought my Sister's state Secure without all doubt, or controversy; Yet where an equal poise of hope and fear Does arbitrate the event, my nature is That I incline to hope, rather than fear, And gladly banish squint suspicion. My Sister is not so defenceless left, As you imagine; she has a hidden strength Which you remember not.

SECOND BROTHER.

THAT hidden strength, Unless the strength of Heav'n, if you mean that?

FIRST BROTHER.

I MEAN that too, but yet a hidden strength, Which, if Heav'n gave it, may be term'd her own; 'Tis chastity, my Brother, chastity: She that hast that, is clad in complete steel, And like a quiver'd Nymph with arrows keen May trace huge forests, and unharbour'd heaths, Infamous hills, and sandy perilous wilds, Where through the sacred rays of chastity, No savage fierce, bandit, or mountaineer Will dare to soil her virgin purity: Yea there, where very desolation dwells, By grots, and caverns shagg'd with horrid shades, She may pass on with unblench'd majesty, Be it not done in pride, or in presumption. Some say no evil thing that walks by night, In fog, or fire, by lake, or moorish fen, Blue meagre hag, or stubborn unlaid ghost, That breaks his magic chains at curfew time, No goblin, or swart faery of the mine, Hath hurtful power o'er true virginity. Do ye believe me yet, or shall I call Antiquity from the old schools of Greece To testify the arms of chastity? Hence had the huntress Dian her dread bow, Fair silver-shafted queen, for ever chaste, Wherewith she tamed the brinded lioness And spotted mountain pard, but set at nought The frivolous bolt of Cupid; Gods and men Fear'd her stern frown, and she was queen o' th' woods. What was that snaky-headed Gorgon shield, That wise Minerva wore, unconquer'd virgin, Wherewith she freezed her foes to con-geal'd stone, But rigid looks of chaste austerity, And noble grace that dash'd brute violence With sudden adoration and blank awe? So dear to heav'n is saintly chastity, That when a soul is found sincerely so, A thousand liveried angels lacky her, Driving far off each thing of sin and guilt, And in clear dream, and solemn vision, Tell her of things that no gross ear can hear Till oft converse with heav'nly habitants Begin to cast a beam on th' outward shape, The unpolluted temple of the mind, And turns it by degrees to the soul's essence, Till all be made immortal: but when lust, By unchaste looks, loose gestures, and foul talk, But most by lewd and lavish act of sin, Lets in defilement to the inward parts, The soul grows clotted by contagion, Imbodies, and imbrutes, till she quite lose The divine property of her first being. Such are those thick & gloomy shadows damp Oft seen in charnal vaults, and sepulchres, Ling'ring and sitting by a new-made grave, As loath to leave the body that it loved, And link'd itself by carnal sensuality To a degenerate and degraded state.

SECOND BROTHER.

HOW charming is divine philosophy! Not harsh, and crabbed, as dull fools suppose, But musical, as in Apollo's lute, And a perpetual feast of nectar'd sweets, Where no crude surfeit reigns.

FIRST BROTHER.

LIST, list, I hear Some far off halloo break the silent air.

SECOND BROTHER.

WETHOUGHT so too: what should it be?

FIRST BROTHER.

FOR certain Either some one like us night-founder'd here, Or else some neighbour woodman, or, at worst, Some roving robber calling to his fellows.

SECOND BROTHER.

HEAV'N keep my Sister. Again, again, and near; Best draw, and stand upon our guard.

FIRST BROTHER.

I'LL halloo; If he be friendly, he comes well; if not, Defence is a good cause, and Heav'n be for us.

That halloo I should know, what are you? speak; Come not too near, you fall on iron stakes else.

SPIRIT.

WHAT voice is that? my young Lord? speak again.

SECOND BROTHER.

OBROTHER, 'tis my father's shepherd, sure.

FIRST BROTHER.

THYRSIS? Whose artful strains have oft delay'd The huddling brook to hear his madrigal, And sweeten'd every muskrose of the dale. How cam'st thou here, good swain? hath any ram Slipt from the fold, or young kid lost his dam, Or straggling wether the pent flock forsook? How could's't thou find this dark sequester'd nook?

SPIRIT.

O MY loved master's heir, and his next joy, I came not here on such a trivial toy As a stray'd ewe, or to pursue the stealth Of pilfering wolf; not all the fleecy wealth That doth enrich these downs is worth a thought To this my errand, and the care it brought. But, O my virgin Lady, where is she? How chance she is not in your company?

FIRST BROTHER.

TO tell thee sadly, Shepherd, without blame, Or our neglect, we lost her as we came.

SPIRIT.

AYE me unhappy! then my fears are true.

FIRST BROTHER.

WHAT fears, good Thyrsis? Prithee briefly show.

SPIRIT.

I 'LL tell ye; 'tis not vain or fabulous,
Though so esteem'd by shallow ignorance,
What the sage poets, taught by the heav'nly Muse, Storied of old, in high immortal verse,
Of dire chimeras, and enchanted isles,
And rifted rocks whose entrance leads to Hell;
For such there be, but unbelief is blind.

WITHIN the navel of this hideous wood, Immured in cypress shades a sorcerer dwells, Of Bacchus and of Circe born, great Comus. Deep skill'd in all his mother's witcheries, And here to every thirsty wanderer By sly enticement gives his baneful cup, With many murmurs mix'd, whose pleasing poison The visage quite transforms of him that drinks, And the inglorious likeness of a beast Fixes instead, unmoulding reason's mintage Character'd in the face:
this I have learnt Tending my flocks hard by i' th' hilly crofts,
That brow this bottom-glade, whence, night by night,
He and his monstrous rout are heard to howl,
Like stabled wolves, or tigers at their prey, Doing abhorred rites to Hecate In their obscured haunts of inmost bowers. Yet have they many baits, & guileful spells, To inveigle & invite th'unwary sense Of them that pass unweeting by the way. This ev'ning late, by then the chewing flocks Had ta'en their supper on the savoury herb Of knot-grass dew-besprent, and were in fold, I sat me down to watch upon a bank With ivy canopied, & interwove With flaunting honey-suckle, and began, Wrapt in a pleasing fit of melancholy, To meditate my rural minstrelsy, Till fancy had her fill, but ere a close, The wonted roar was up amidst the woods, And fill'd the air with barbarous dissonance; At which I ceased, and listen'd them a while, Till an unusual stop of sudden silence Gave respite to the drowsy frightened steeds, That draw the litter of close-curtain'd sleep; At last a soft & solemn-breathing sound Rose like a steam of rich distill'd perfumes, And stole upon the air, that even Silence Was took ere she was ware, & wish'd she might Deny her nature, and be never more, Still to be so displaced. I was all ear, And took in strains that might create a soul Under the ribs of death: but O ere long Too well

I did perceive it was the voice Of my most honour'd Lady, your dear Sister. Amazed I stood, harrow'd with grief & fear, And O poor hapless nightingale thought I, How sweet thou sing'st, how near the deadly snare! Then down the lawns I ran with headlong haste, Through paths and turnings often trod by day, Till guided by mine ear I found the place, Where that damn'd wizard, hid in sly disguise, (For so by certain signs I knew) had met Already, ere my best speed could prevent, The aid-less innocent Lady his wish'd prey, Who gently ask'd if he had seen such two, Supposing him some neighbour villager. Longer I durst not stay, but soon I guess'd Ye were the two she meant; with that I sprung Into swift flight, till I had found you here,
But further know I not.

SECOND BROTHER.

O NIGHT and shades, How are ye join'd with Hell in triple knot, Against the unarm'd weakness of one virgin, Alone and helpless! Is this the confidence
You gave me, Brother?

FIRST BROTHER.

YES, and keep it still, Lean on it safely; not a period Shall be unsaid for me: against the threats Of malice or of sorcery, or that power Which erring men call Chance, this I hold firm, Virtue may be assail'd, but never hurt, Surprised by unjust force, but not enthrall'd; Yea even that which mischief meant most harm, Shall in the happy trial prove most glory: But evil on itself shall back recoil, And mix no more with goodness, when at last Gather'd like scum, & settled to itself, It shall be in eternal restless change Self-fed, and self-consumèd: if this fail, The pillar'd firmament is rottenness, And earth's base built on stubble. But come, let's on. Against the opposing will and arm of heaven May never this just sword be lifted up; But for that damn'd magician, let him be girt With all the grisly legions that troop Under the sooty flag of Acheron, Harpies and Hydras, or all the monstrous forms 'Twixt Africa and Ind, I'll find him out, And force him to return his purchase back, Or drag him by the curls to a foul death, Cursed as his life.

SPIRIT.

ALAS! good vent'rous youth, I love thy courage yet, & bold emprise; But here thy sword can do thee little stead, Far other arms & other weapons must Be those that quell the might of hellish charms: He with his bare wand can unthread thy joints,
And crumble all thy sinews.

FIRST BROTHER.

WHY prithee, Shepherd, How durst thou then thyself approach so near,
As to make this relation?

SPIRIT.

CARE & utmost shifts How to secure the Lady from surprisal, Brought to my mind a certain shepherd lad, Of small regard to see to, yet well skill'd In every virtuous plant & healing herb, That spreads her verdant leaf to th' morning ray: He loved me well, and oft would beg me sing,
Which when I did, he on the tender grass Would sit, and hearken e'en to ecstasy, And in requital ope his leathern scrip, And show me simples of a thousand names, Telling their strange and vigorous faculties: Amongst the rest a small unsightly root, But of divine effect, he cull'd me out; The leaf was darkish, and had prickles on it, But in another country, as he said, Bore a bright golden flow'r, but not in this soil: Unknown, and like esteem'd, & the dull swain Treads on it daily with his clouted shoon And yet more med'cinal is it than that moly That Hermes once to wise Ulysses gave; He call'd it hæmony, and gave it me, And bad me keep it as of sovereign use 'Gainst all enchantments, mildew, blast, or damp, Or ghastly furies' apparition. I pursed it up, but little reck'ning made, Till now that this extremity compell'd: But now I find it true; for by this means I knew the foul enchanter though disguised, Enter'd the very lime-twigs of his spells, And yet came off: if you have this about you, (As I will give you when we go) you may Boldly assault the necromancer's hall; Where if he be, with dauntless hardihood, And brandish'd blade rush on him, break his glass, And shed the luscious liquor on the ground. But seize his wand; though he and his cursed crew Fierce sign of battle make, & menace high,

Or like the sons of Vulcan vomit smoke,
Yet will they soon retire, if he but shrink.

FIRST BROTHER.

THYRSIS, lead on apace, I'll follow thee, And some good Angel bear a shield before us.

thee, And some good Angel bear a
shield before us.

COMUS.

NAY, Lady, sit; if I but wave this wand, Your nerves are all chain'd up in alabaster, And you a statue, or as Daphne was Root-bound, that fled Apollo.

LADY.

FOOL, do not boast, Thou canst not touch the freedom of my mind With all thy charms, although this corporal rind Thou hast immanacled, while Heav'n sees good.

COMUS.

WHY are you vext, Lady? why do you frown? Here dwell no frowns, nor anger; from these gates Sorrow flies far: See, here be all the pleasures That fancy can beget on youthful thoughts, When the fresh blood grows lively, and returns Brisk as the April buds in primrose-season. And first behold this cordial julep here, That flames, & dances in his crystal bounds, With spirits of balm, and fragrant syrups mix'd. Not that Nepenthes, which the wife of Thone In Egypt gave to Jove-born Helena, Is of such power to stir up joy as this, To life so friendly, or so cool to thirst. Why should you be so cruel to yourself, And to those dainty limbs which Nature lent For gentle usage, and soft delicacy? But you invert the covenants of her trust, And harshly deal, like an ill borrower, With that which you received on other terms; Scorning the unexempt condition By which all mortal frailty must subsist, Refreshment after toil, ease after pain, That have been tired all day without repast, And timely rest have wanted; but, fair Virgin, This will restore all soon.

LADY.

 'Twill not, false traitor, 'Twill not restore the truth and honesty That thou hast banish'd from thy tongue with lies. Was this the Cottage, and the safe abode Thou toldst me of? What grim aspects are these, These ugly-headed monsters? Mercy guard me! Hence with thy brew'd enchantments, foul deceiver; Hast thou betray'd my credulous innocence
With visor'd falsehood and base forgery?
And would'st thou seek again to trap me here With liquorish baits fit to ensnare a brute? Were it a draught for Juno when she banquets, I would not taste thy treasonous offer; none But such as are good men can give good things, And that which is not good, is not delicious To a well-gov-ern'd and wise appetite.

COMUS.

 FOOLISHNESS of men! that lend their ears To those budge doctors of the Stoic fur, And fetch their precepts from the Cynic tub, Praising the lean & sallow Abstinence. Wherefore did Nature pour her bounties forth,

With such a full and unwithdrawing hand, Covering the earth with odours, fruits, and flocks, Thronging the seas with spawn innumerable, But all to please, and sate the curious taste? And set to work millions of spinning worms, That in their green shops weave the smooth-hair'd silk To deck her sons; and that no corner might Be vacant of her plenty, in her own loins She hutch'd
the all-worshipp'd ore, and precious gems,
To store her children with: if all the world
Should in a pet of temp'rance feed on pulse,
Drink the clear stream, and nothing wear but frieze, Th' All-giver would be unthank'd, would be unpraised, Not half his riches known, and yet despised; And we should serve him as a grudging master, As a penurious niggard of his wealth; And live like Nature's bastards, not her sons, Who would be quite surcharged with her own weight, And strangled with her waste fertility; Th' earth cumber'd, & the wing'd air dark'd with plumes, The herds would over-multitude their lords, The sea o'er-fraught would swell, and th' unsought diamonds Would so emblaze the forehead of the deep, And so bestud with stars, that they below Would grow inured to light, and come at last To gaze upon the sun with shameless brows. List, Lady, be not coy, and be not cozen'd With that same vaunted name Virginity. Beauty is Nature's coin, must not be hoarded But must be current, and the good thereof Consists in mutual & partaken bliss, Unsavoury in th' enjoyment of itself; If you let slip time, like a neglected rose It withers on the stalk with lan-guish'd head. Beauty is Nature's brag, and must be shown In courts, at feasts, & high solemnities, Where most may wonder at the workmanship; It is for homely features to keep home, They had their name thence;

coarse complexions, And cheeks of sorry grain, will serve to ply The sampler, and to tease the huswife's wool. What need a vermeil-tinctured lip for that, Love-darting eyes, or tresses like the morn? There was another meaning in these gifts, Think what,
and be advised, you are but young yet.

LADY.

I HAD not thought to have un-lockt my lips In this unhallow'd air, but that this juggler Would think to charm my judgment, as mine eyes,

Obtruding false rules prank'd in reason's garb. I hate when vice can bolt her arguments, And virtue has no tongue to check her pride. Impostor, do not charge most innocent Nature, As if she would her children should be riotous With her abundance; she, good cateress, Means her provision only to the good, That live according to her sober laws, And holy dictate of spare temperance: If every just man, that now pines with want, Had but a moderate and beseeeming share Of that which lewdly-pamper'd luxury Now heaps upon some few with vast excess, Nature's full blessings would be well dispensed In unsuperfluous even proportion, And she no whit incumber'd with her store; And then the giver would be better thank'd, His praise due paid; for swinish gluttony Ne'er looks to heav'n amidst his gorgeous feast, But with besotted base ingratitude Crams, and blasphemes his feeder. Shall I go on? Or have I said enough? To him that dares Arm his profane tongue with contemptuous words Against the sun-clad power of Chastity, Fain would I something say, yet to what end? Thou hast nor ear, nor soul to apprehend The sublime notion, and high mystery, That must be utter'd to unfold the sage And serious doctrine of Virginitie, And thou art worthy that thou shouldst not know More happiness than this thy present lot. Enjoy your dear wit, & gay rhetoric, That hath so well been taught her dazzling fence, Thou art not fit to hear thyself convinced; Yet should I try, the uncon-troll'd worth Of this pure cause would kindle my rapt spirits To such a flame of sacred vehemence, That dumb things would be moved to sympathize, And the brute earth would lend her nerves, and shake, Till all thy magic structures rear'd so high,

Were shatter'd into heaps o'er thy false head.

COMUS.

SHE fables not, I feel that I do fear Her words set off by some superior power; And though not mortal, yet a cold shudd'ring dew Dips me all o'er, as when the wrath of Jove Speaks thunder, and the chains of Erebus, To some of Saturn's crew. I must dissemble, And try her yet more strongly. Come, no more, This is mere moral babble, and direct Against the canon-laws of our foundation; I must not suffer this, yet 'tis but the lees And settlings of a melancholy blood: But this will cure all straight, one sip of this Will bathe the drooping spirits in delight, Beyond the bliss of dreams. Be wise, and taste.—

THE Brothers rush in with swords drawn, wrest his glass out of his hand, and break it against the ground; his rout make sign of resistance, but are all driven in. The attendant Spirit comes in

SPIRIT.

WHAT, have you let the false enchanter 'scape? O ye mistook, ye should have snatch'd his wand, And bound him fast; without his rod reversed, And backward mutters of dis severing power, We cannot free the Lady that sits here In stony fetters fix'd, and motionless. Yet stay, be not disturb'd: now I be think me, Some other means I have which may be used, Which once of Melibæus old I learnt, The soothest shepherd that e'er piped on plains.

THERE is a gentle nymph not far from hence, That with moist curb sways the smooth Severn stream, Sabrina is her name, a virgin pure; Whilome she was the daughter of Locrine, That had the sceptre from his father Brute. She, guilt-less damsel, flying the mad pursuit Of her enragèd stepdame Guendolen, Commended her fair innocence to the flood, That stay'd her flight with his cross-flowing course. The water nymphs that in the bottom play'd, Held up their pearlèd wrists, & took her in, Bearing her straight to aged Nereus' hall, Who piteous of her woes, rear'd her lank head, And gave her to his daughters to imbathe In nectar'd lavers strow'd with asphodel, And through the porch and inlet of each sense Dropp'd in ambrosial oils, till she revived, And underwent a quick immortal change, Made Goddess of the river: still she retains Her maiden gentleness, and oft at eve Visits the herds along the twilight meadows, Helping all urchin blasts, and ill-luck signs That the shrewd meddling elf delights to make,
Which she with precious vial'd liquors heals. For which the shepherds at their festivals Carol her goodness loud in rustic lays, And throw sweet garland wreaths into her stream Of pansies, pinks, and gaudy daffodils. And, as the old swain said, she can unlock The clasping charm, and thaw the numbing spell, If she be right invoked in warbled song, For maidenhood she loves, & will be swift To aid a virgin, such as was herself, In hard-besetting need; this will I try, And add the power of some ad-juring verse.

SONG.

S ABRINA fair,
Listen where thou art sitting Under the glassy, cool, translucent wave,
In twisted braids of lilies knitting
The loose train of thy amber-dropping hair;
Listen for dear honour's sake,
Goddess of the silver lake,
Listen and save.
Listen and appear to us
In name of great Oceanus,
By the earth-shaking Neptune's mace,
And Tethys' grave majestic pace,
By hoary Nereus' wrinkled look,

And the Carpathian wisard's hook,
By scaly Triton's winding shell,
And old soothsaying Glaucus' spell,
By Leucothea's lovely hands,
And her son that rules the strands,
By Thetis' tinsel-slipper'd feet,
And the songs of Sirens sweet,
By dead Parthenope's dear tomb,
And fair Ligea's golden comb,
Wherewith she sits on diamond rocks,
Sleeking her soft alluring locks,
By all the nymphs that nightly dance
Upon thy streams with wily glance,
Rise, rise, and heave thy rosy head
From thy coral-paven bed,
And bridle in thy headlong wave,
Till thou our summons answer'd have.
Listen and save.

Sabrina rises, attended by water-nymphs, and sings.

BY the rushy-fringèd bank, Where grows the willow and the osier dank,
My sliding chariot stays,
Thick set with agate, and the azure sheen
Of turkis blue, and emerald green,

That in the channel strays;
Whilst from off the waters fleet,
Thus I set my printless feet
O'er the cowslip's velvet head,
That bends not as I tread;
Gentle Swain, at thy request
I am here.

SPIRIT.

GODDESS dear,
We implore thy pow'rful hand
To undo the charmèd band
Of true virgin here distress,
Through the force, and through the wile
Of unblest enchanter vile.

SABRINA.

SHEPHERD, 'tis my office best
To help insnared chastity:
Brightest Lady, look on me;
Thus I sprinkle on thy breast Drops that from my fountain pure
I have kept of precious cure,
Thrice upon thy finger's tip,
Thrice upon thy rubied lip;
Next this marble venom'd seat,
Smear'd with gums of glutinous heat,
I touch with chaste palms moist and cold:

Now the spell hath lost his hold;
And I must haste ere morning hour
To wait in Amphitrite's bower.

Sabrina descends, and the Lady rises out of her seat

SPIRIT.

VIRGIN, daughter of Loctrine
Sprung of old Anchises' line,
May thy brimmèd waves for this Their full tribute never miss
From a thousand petty rills,
That tumble down the snowy hills
Summer drouth, or singèd air
Never scorch thy tresses fair, Nor wet October's torrent flood Thy molten crystal fill with mud;
May thy billows roll ashore
The beryl, and the golden ore;
May thy lofty head be crown'd
With many a tow'r and terrace round,
And here and there thy banks upon
With groves of myrrh and cinnamon.

COME, Lady, while Heav'n lends us grace,
Let us fly this cursèd place,

Lest the sorcerer us entice
With some other new device.
Not a waste, or needless sound,
Till we come to holier ground;
I shall be your faithful guide
Through this gloomy covert wide.
And not many furlongs thence
Is your Father's residence,
Where this night are met in state
Many a friend to gratulate His wish'd presence, and beside All the swains that there abide,
With jigs, and rural dance resort,
We shall catch them at their sport,
And our sudden coming there Will double all their mirth and cheer;
Come, let us haste, the stars grow high,
But night sits monarch yet in the mid sky.

The Scene changes, presenting Ludlow town and the President's castle; then come in country dancers, after them the attendant Spirit, with the two Brothers, and the Lady.

SONG.

SPIRIT.

BACK, Shepherds, back, enough
your play,
Till next sunshine holiday;
Here be without duck or nod
Other trippings to be trod
Of lighter toes, and such court guise
As Mercury did first devise,
With the mincing Dryades,
On the lawns, and on the leas.

This second Song presents them to their Father and Mother.

NOBLE Lord, and Lady bright,
I have brought ye new delight,
Here behold so goodly grown
Three fair branches of your own;
Heav'n hath timely tried their youth,
Their faith, their patience, and their truth,
And sent them here through hard assays
With a crown of deathless praise,
To triumph in victorious dance
O'er sensual folly, and intemperance.

The dances ended, the Spirit epiloguises.

SPIRIT.

TO the ocean now I fly,
And those happy climes that lie
Where day never shuts his eye,
Up in the broad fields of the sky:
There I suck the liquid air
All amidst the gardens fair
Of Hesperus, and his daughters three
That sing about the golden tree:
Along the crispèd shades and bowers
Revels the spruce and jocund Spring,
The Graces, and the rosy-bosom'd Hours, Thither all their bounties bring;
There eternal Summer dwells,
And west-winds, with musky wing,
About the cedarn alleys fling Nard and cassia's balmy smells.
Iris there with humid bow
Waters the odorous banks, that blow Flowers of more mingled hue
Than her purpled scarf can show,
And drenches with Elysian dew (List mortals, if your ears be true)
Beds of hyacinth and roses,
Where young Adonis oft reposes, Waxing well of his deep wound
In slumber soft, and on the ground

Sadly sits th' Assyrian queen;
But far above in spangled sheen Celestial Cupid her famed son advanced,
Holds his dear Psyche sweet intranced,
After her wand'ring labours long,
Till free consent the Gods among Make her his eternal bride,
And from her fair unspotted side
Two blissful twins are to be born, Youth and Joy; so Jove hath sworn.
But now my task is smoothly done,
I can fly, or I can run
Quickly to the green earth's end,
Where the bow'd welkin slow doth bend,
And from thence can soar as soon
To the corners of the moon.

ORTALS, that would follow me,
Love Virtue, she alone is free,
She can teach ye how to climb
Higher than the sphery chime:
Or, if Virtue feeble were,
Heav'n itself would stoop to her.
